

Opinions as to the Results of the Recent Tidal Wave and Cyclonic Disturbances—What Will the Harvest Be?

What's the use of higgling over the result in Ohio? Let the Democrats have the whole shooting-match.

You can mark it down as a certainty that as soon as Congress commences to tinker with the Tariff, the wages of American workmen will be reduced with a rush.

The Washington representative of the Associated Press figures out the next House as follows: Democrats 213, Republicans 129, and 10 Fusionists or Third party men.

Sig. H. Marcus, of the firm of Henry Marcus & Son, Baltimore, went to Barnsville, O., Tuesday with the intention of buying $50,000 worth of wool from a local dealer. When he heard the result of the election he immediately left town, saying that he did not care to buy any more wool.

The Democratic Returning Board of Boyd county has issued a certificate of election to George H. Mead for Circuit Clerk, though the returns show that Steele, Republican, was elected by 19 majority. Honest people of all parties denounce it as an outrage, but it goes all the same.

The Globe-Democrat of St. Louis says that in 1896 the Republicans will sweep everything. The free silver and wild-cat currency program of the Western and Southern ends of the Democracy will be antagonized by the Eastern end and by Cleveland, and the party will be split for the time being. Thus 1896 will be a great year for the Republicans.

The Falcon Iron and Nail Company of Youngstown, O., which has been engaged in constructing a mammoth tin plate plant, has decided to stop work after completing the present plans, and will not erect the machinery. This is but a natural sequence of the policy which proclaims that Americans shall buy their tin in England instead of buying it in America.

James H. Watt, President of the Watt Mining Car Wheel Company, Barnsville, O., offers to take a complete inventory of their manufacturing establishment, and sell the same for seventy-five cents on the dollar on account of the Democratic victory. The works could not have been bought Tuesday for $1 50 on the dollar. The company employs over a hundred men, and does a world-wide business.

The report comes from Middletown, O., to the effect that the firm of King, Gilbert & Warner intend to make reductions in the wages of their employees from five to ten per cent. as the result of Tuesday's election. It was further reported that the company had countermanded orders for millions of tons of steel since Tuesday. As a large number of workmen voted to bring this about, it is hoped they will be pleased with their success.

The strong probability of an extra session of Congress immediately following the inauguration of the President-elect is a subject of general conversation in Washington. A special session of the Senate is always called at the beginning of a new administration to confirm the members of the Cabinet and the new diplomatic representatives of the United States abroad. But the present election having turned on questions of domestic policy it is said to be obvious to experienced political leaders of all parties that an extra session of both Houses of Congress will almost inevitably result. Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Charles Folger, states that the Republicans, he says, challenged the judgment of the country on the McKinley bill, and the result must be accepted as the will of the people that a different policy shall be put into effect. Mr. Folger relayed words to a friend in Washington, in the effect, adding that the people will expect this to be done without unnecessary delay.

JOHN'S PUMPKIN. Last spring I found a pumpkin seed. And thought that I would go And plant it in a secret place. That to one else would know, And watch all summer long to see It grow, and grow, and grow, And maybe raise a pumpkin for A Jack-o'-lantern show.

I stuck a stick beside the seed And thought that I should about One morning when I stooped and saw The greenest little sprout! I used to carry water there, When I was about, And every day I'd count to see How many leaves were out. Till, by and by, there came a tower The color of the sun, Which withered up, and then I saw The pumpkin was begun; But, oh! I knew I'd have to wait So long to have my fun, Before that small, green ball could be A great big yellow one.

At last, one day, when it had grown To be the proper size, Said Aunt Matilda: "John, see here, 'I'll give you a surprise!' She took me to a pantry shelf, And there, before my eyes, Was set a dreadful row of half A dozen pumpkin pies. Said Aunt Matilda: "John, I found A pumpkin, right and dry, Upon a pile of rubbish, down Behind that worn-out sty!" O dear, I didn't cry, because I'm quite too big to cry, But honestly, I couldn't eat A mouthful of the pie.

Remains of Robert Tarleton Brought Yesterday—Particulars of the Tragic.

The remains of Robert T. Tarleton, who lost his life in a railroad wreck at Greeley, Kansas, on last Friday night, arrived in Maysville yesterday morning and were immediately taken to Shannon, where they were buried.

Nate Suit was the only one of the party who came home. Mr. Bratton sat with Elsie Payton, whose arm was broken and was otherwise injured, though not seriously.

From Mr. Suit's account the accident was the result of carelessness on the part of the railroad people. Messrs. Suit, Bratton, Tarleton and Payton, accompanied by J. T. Long, were in the caboose of a freight train, intending to go to the residence of James Cumbers, a former citizen of this county, where they were invited to take supper. It was just about dark and the train on which they were was standing still at the Greeley Depot waiting for a passenger train to pass.

The passenger came but the switch had been left open. Mr. Suit was the first one to notice the near approach of the flying train and called the attention of one of the crew to the fact. He gave a glance to the rear and cried out: "It is on this track. Jump for your lives." The whole party rushed for the door and all got off in safety except poor Tarleton. He was a second too late and was crushed and mangled beyond recognition, the entire top of his head being taken off.

Mr. Payton made the jump all right but was injured by some of those following jumping on him.

Robert T. Tarleton was unmarried and about 45 years old. He had been a prosperous citizen and was very popular among his acquaintances.

THE White Slave.

Bartley Campbell's celebrated play of Southern life "The White Slave" will be produced in this city for the first time at Washington Opera House to-night.

It will be enacted by H. C. Kennedy's excellent company after a most successful run last week at Havlin's Theater, Cincinnati.

It is a beautiful and powerful drama of the South before the war and especially commends itself to Southern people.

Slipped With His Own Wife.

Some months ago THE LEDGER noticed the clandestine marriage at Ironton of Henry Jones to Miss Clara Morgan, daughter of a C. and O. Railway official, and that a few hours later the parents of the young lady forcibly took her away from her husband. Thus matters remained until Saturday, on which day the Morgan family was to a matinee, leaving Clara alone at home. Mr. Jones got a straight up to the situation and it was not long till he got a horse and buggy, called for his bride, and they are now beyond the immediate reach of the irate parents, just as happy as a Democrat.

American Chaperon.

From The Daily Bulletin, Watcom, Wash.—"T. C. Burnett, the Democratic candidate for Sheriff, was taken violently ill at Clearbrook. He had all the symptoms of Asiatic cholera, and for an hour or two it was feared he would die. They finally gave him a dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which revived him until a physician was secured." That is precisely what the many factors of that medicine recommend for cholera. Send for a physician but give them medicine until the physician arrives. If cholera becomes prevalent in this country next summer this preparation will be in great demand because it can always be depended upon. For sale by Power & Reynolds, Druggists.

EIGHTY YEARS AGO.

John M. Myers Celebrates His Eightieth Birthday in Lewis County.

John Means Myers was born at the "old homestead" near Concord, Lewis county, November 24, 1812.

His father settled the place and built the house where he was born in 1800. Since then the dwelling has been remodeled, and it is now occupied by Henry C. Myers and his happy family.

Mr. Myers suffered a stroke of paralysis four years ago, and his wife died April 18th last, and he has since divided his time among his children.

He has long been known as one of Lewis county's solid citizens, and no man stands higher in the esteem of those who know him.

On the 24 of this month his children, relatives and friends gave him a birthday dinner at the residence of his daughter near Sand Hill, the occasion of his 80th anniversary, to which the following sat down: Mrs. Mary Wilson, David Thomas, John T. Hendrickson, Mr. and Mrs. Mason Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Tolle, Mr. and Mrs. George T. Wilson, Dr. and Mrs. John Adamson, Mr. and Mrs. John Donnelly, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C.
